

EN

Spring at Grazer Kunstverein

8 March – 24 May 2019

Sylvia Schedelbauer Collected Works 2004–2018

Triple Candie

The Culmination of Eighteen Months of Speculative Inquiry into the Anaphoric and Cataphoric Plays of a Situationist Aesthete: This Exhibition—which isn't really about Narratology per se—Collects the Unfaithful Simulations, (Re)Articulations, and Interpolations Endeavored by Triple Candie, in Principled Reverence for the Deceased and Beloved American Artist Michael Asher (1943–2012)

Curated by Kate Strain

Grazer Kunstverein Palais Trauttmansdorff Burggasse 4 8010 Graz Tel. +43 (0)316 83 41 41 Fax +43 (0)316 83 41 42

office@grazerkunstverein.org www.grazerkunstverein.org

Opening hours: Wed–Sun 11am–6pm Triple Candie 11am–2:30pm Sylvia Schedelbauer 2:30–6pm

Admission to the exhibitions is free Guided tours of the exhibitions are available upon request

Grazer Kunstverein is structurally supported by the city of Graz, the Federal Chancellery of Austria Arts and Culture Division, the province of Styria, legero united | con-tempus.eu, and its members. The project with Triple Candie was produced in collaboration with Phileas.

BUNDESKANZLERAMT

Triple Candie

The Culmination of Eighteen Months of Speculative Inquiry into the Anaphoric and Cataphoric Plays of a Situationist Aesthete: This Exhibition—which isn't really about Narratology per se—Collects the Unfaithful Simulations, (Re)Articulations, and Interpolations Endeavored by Triple Candie, in Principled Reverence for the Deceased and Beloved American Artist Michael Asher (1943–2012)

Throughout 2018 and early 2019 Triple Candie (Shelly Bancroft and Peter Nesbett) undertook a multi-layered research project investigating the work and legacy of the legendary American conceptual artist Michael Asher. Asher is well known for creating temporary installations in museum and gallery environments, often foregrounding the various hidden systems and assumptions that make art viewing possible. Triple Candie researched his oeuvre in order to understand and embody his production methodology, and to apply it, in a new and moderately theatrical way, to the specific context of the Grazer Kunstverein.

As part of the research project Triple Candie proposed multiple speculative installations, that were realised in a sequential seasonal rhythm throughout 2018. In practice, these installations were an attempt to resurrect the lost experiential potentialities of the work of an artist like Asher, asking 'is it possible, through the speculative potential of arts practice, to reactivate expired gestures, in new or meaningful ways?' Marking the culmination of this extensive research project, as part of the Spring Season we present a reprise of the first four installations, together with seven additional proposals that were previously unrealised. The exhibition will be documented with a forthcoming catalogue publication, contextualising the entire project.

Triple Candie (Shelly Bancroft and Peter Nesbett) is a US-based, avant-garde curatorial production agency that collaborates with museums and contemporary art spaces on exhibitions about art but generally devoid of it. From 2001 to 2010, it had a gallery in Harlem. Since then, it has presented projects in Australia, Europe, and the United States at such venues as Chateau Shatto, Los Angeles, Deste Foundation, Athens, Gertrude Contemporary, Melbourne, Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit, Project Arts Centre, Dublin, and Utah Museum of Contemporary Art, Salt Lake City. Surveys of Triple Candie's work have appeared at FRAC Île-de-France/Le Plateau, Paris (2012), and Addison Gallery of American Art, Andover, Massachusetts (2017).

List of installations

i. Untitled

A list of the names of all the artists the Grazer Kunstverein has ever worked with across exhibitionmaking, displayed in alphabetical order in vinyl lettering across the front windows of the institution.

ii. Untitled

The cutting away of the lower 12 inches of the reception desk revealing feet, wires, cables etc.

iii. Untitled

Multiple copies of a book, Raphaël Baroni & Françoise Revaz's Narrative Sequence in Contemporary Narratology to be read by multiple readers simultaneously in The Members Library.

iv. Untitled

A replacement of a half-wall in the main gallery, that at one time hid the staff's office before the facility was redesigned.

v. Untitled

Two posters of American garbage trucks, photographed in Washington DC during the longest government shutdown in US history.

vi. Untitled

A hanging display of garden chairs. These chairs replace a set of six pink Fermob Luxembourg chairs, previously on loan from neighbouring business chillout area. The verbal loan agreement concerning the original chairs expired and was not renewed.

vii. Untitled

An audio recording of ambient sounds recorded in the Grazer Kunstverein's office, broadcast at low volume.

viii. Untitled

Two vertical, floor to ceiling incisions in adjacent corners of a gallery wall.

ix. Untitled

A tourist postcard bearing a photographic portrait of Kate Strain, Grazer Kunstverein's Artistic Director.

x. Untitled

An empty flagpole reinserted into an unused mount on the exterior façade.

xi. Untitled

A mobility walker periodically moved to different locations in the Grazer Kunstverein's courtyard.

Public Programme

8 March 2019

8pm: Opening of two new exhibitions by Sylvia Schedelbauer and Triple Candie. The Spring Season opening takes place in the frame of CRK+ with additional openings around the city at <rotor> (6pm), Camera Austria (7pm), as well as Grazer Kunstverein (8pm), followed by a celebration at Schauspielhaus as part of International Women's Day (10pm) by Women in Action: the private is political – no sh*t!*

23 March 2019

11am: Panel Discussion in collaboration with Diagonale – Festival of Austrian Film. This event is chaired by Claudia Slanar with discursive contributions by Sylvia Schedelbauer, Daniel Fitzpatrick, Lydia Nsiah and Johann Lurf. The theme of this event is around the political impact of experimental/ innovative cinema today. Brunch will be provided by Fink's artist Fiona Hallinan.

24 April 2019

7pm: Artists' Homes with Gottfried Pengg-Auheim. Born in Graz and living here since 2006, Pengg-Auheim did not embark on his artistic career until he had completed his studies in forestry. He graduated from the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna and has since worked as a successful painter focusing on landscape, portraiture and still life. He invites us to his studio to dive into his visual worlds. Location: Glacisstraße 33, 8010 Graz.

3 May 2019

7pm: Reading performance by J. Michael Martinez and Karen Tei Yamashita as part of Forms of Migration: An International Conference on Transnational Literature & Innovative Aesthetics. Also featuring a special performance, "To A Syrian Prisoner of Conscience," by Gregory Carlock and Stefan Maneval. This event is organized by Jennifer A. Reimer, FWF and American Studies Department, Uni Graz.

3/4/5 May 2019

Gallery Days

The Grazer Kunstverein is delighted to host a reading performance presented by Uni Graz (on Friday 3 May) as well as the ongoing exhibition programme of the Spring Season.

15 May 2019

7pm: The Members Library with Theresia Fauland-Nerat. The artist takes us on an inspiring journey through artistic techniques, various motifs and fascinating cultural insights that she was able to gain during her travels. Her recently published catalogue illustrates the wide range of her practice. Born in Styria, Fauland-Nerat studied art history and restoration and works mainly in the fields of sculpture, installation, photography, painting and performance.

17 May 2019

2–6pm: Editing Event and Public Discussion with Triple Candie. For this daytime event, Triple Candie (Shelly Bancroft and Peter Nesbett) will be in conversation with artistic director Kate Strain and invited guests to discuss their expansive research project If Michael Asher, as well as their current exhibition at Grazer Kunstverein, and the content and compilation process of their forthcoming publication which serves as a catalogue documenting the entire project.

23 May 2019

7pm: Poetry reading by Myung Mi Kim, South Koreaborn and USA-based poet and author of Under Flag (1991), The Bounty (1996), DURA (1999), Commons (2002), River Antes (2006) and Penury (2009). This event is organized by Jennifer A. Reimer, FWF and American Studies Department, Uni Graz.

Bookings for all of our public programme events can be made by emailing office@grazerkunstverein.org

For updates and further information on our calendar please refer to the Events page of our website: www.grazerkunstverein.org > secouq' uncy closer look. tragments she has unearthed for us always merit a and consideration, ensuring at every turn that the Schedelbauer assumes with unparalleled care, time and what it will be replaced by.⁵ This is a position that who ultimately decides how long we see each shot us as viewers under the command of the filmmaker 'evanescence' of the film image, the quality that places replacing the last. I hese shots exaggerate the living out a perpetual becoming, each precipice transformation that takes place on screen, each film spawning of new material is a process of pieces of film to create a third, a fourth etc. I his component of what she does, blending two or more found footage though – hybridity is an essential selection that distinguishes Schedelbauer's work with It is the act of combining as much as it is the act of College Dublin and Dublin Institute of Technology. Gallery, Galway Arts Centre, The Dock, University Festival of Artists' Moving Image, IFI, The Douglas Hyde Museum of Modern Art, Project Arts Centre, PLASTIK panels on the moving image in Ireland at the Irish The Hugh Lane and she has lectured or participated in regularly presents screenings at Dublin City Gallery regular film reviewer for RTE Radio One's Arena. She Review, VAN, EFS Publications, and CIRCA. She is a Sound, SET Magazine, Paper Visual Art, Enclave VAI Northern Ireland. Butler has written for Sight and 'Ys We May Think' at IFI, Dublin, and 'New Spaces' with Jenny Brady & Sarah Browne at The Dock, Leitrim, The L-Shape', an exhibition of moving image work by image work. Recent solo curatorial ventures include supports and exhibits artist & experimental moving curator and co-director of aemi, a platform that Alice Butler is a Dublin-based tilm programmer,

- incy-raven, or behind a picture', http://www.vdrome.org/ what she calls 'a continuity of desire... to see around, relation to her film The Deccan Trap (2015) refers to 1 Lucy Raven in conversation with Victoria Brooks in
- MIT Press, Cambridge, Massachussets, 2006, p. 16. Contemporary Art, Whitechapel, London and the Charles (ed.), The Archive: Documents of 2 Merewether, Charles, Introduction to Merewether,
- Arnold's Pièce touchée (2011) 3 Summers, Francis, (Re)Counting Love: Martin
- Footage Film as Discursive Metahistory: 4 Conner, Bruce, quoted in Zyrd, Michael, Found Therefore SUMMERS%20Francis.pdf https://extra.shu.ac.uk/transmission/papers/
- 04.q University of Minnesota Press, Vol 2, No. 2, 2003, Craig Baldwin's Tribulation 99' in The Moving Image,
- University Press, 2009, p. 7 Translated and Edited by Claudia Gorbman, Columbia 5 Chion, Michel, Audio-Vision: Sound on Screen,

Sylvia Schedelbauer On the works of - MOUMOUMOU

Text by Alice Butler

'JX9n sround, or behind a picture' rather than what comes images that peel back one by one to reveal what's in which standard sequences give way to transparent It also allows for a more archaeological approach, one preoccupations and associations that this entails. thought process, with all the mysterious pathways, that closely resembles the elusive qualities of a unique albeit daunting opportunity to create something reconfiguration. This feature affords the filmmaker the great attributes, offering the possibility for infinite always something to overcome but arguably one of its inexorable component of the medium however, not outcome of the flat image. Fragmentation is an single frame is often obscured by the polished The labour invested in the tractured production of a conceal or distract from its piecemeal assembly. For the most part, cinema goes to great lengths to dislocation caused by global conflict relate. and about whom all the film's questions of cultural intently into the lens of the camera at the film's outset Glass features a protagonist though, a man who stares as a portrait of a splintered collective psyche. Sounding overlooked but presented together here, they amass fillers, accidents even, expressions of what is typically In their original contexts, these shots were cut-aways, a baby on her back, sun bursting through the clouds. explosions on a battlefield, a Japanese woman carrying example we see snapshots of a forest, a murmuration, historical figures appear.2 In Sounding Glass (2011) for monumental' - no landmarks, iconic events or familiar Charles Merewether describes as the 'counterextensive, are characterized by what art historian and newsreels. The un-captioned segments, although collections that includes home movies, travelogues draws from educational, industrial and amateur predominantly of pre-existing footage, material that she Sylvia Schedelbauer's films are composed which she uses a collection of her German father's emerges in Memories (2004), the artist's first film in resonates with the novel but so too does the story that rootlessness evoked in Schedelbauer's way fare (2009) uncovering his past. The conspicuous feeling of Jacques Austerlitz subsequently becomes intent on Welsh parents, who conceal his identity from him, the Kindertransport to London. Adopted and raised by advent of the Second World War and sent as part of a novel whose eponymous Jewish hero is born in the W.G. Sebald, perhaps most notably in Yusterlitz' (2001), characters that populate the books of German writer a paintul sense of alterity reminiscent of the peripatetic the camera. They are solitary and nomadic, conveying faces from view, unusually wary of being captured by tilmography – elsewhere tigures mostly shield their s'neuronaly in Schedelbauer's The forthright protagonist in Sounding Glass is lives in the immediate aftermath of World War II. secrets of both his and her Japanese mother's early photographs to try and unearth the closely guarded

Schedelbauer's most recent works.3 not dissimilar to the experience of absorbing some of a "now-now", a sensation of desired apprehension mires the audience in a perpetual present that evokes extract from a 1950s American B-Movie that he says bnobes 8f minute film that stretches out an 18 second experimental filmmaker Martin Arnold's Pièce touchée Francis Summers describes in relation to Austrian introduce the 'frenzied inertia' that critical theorist section of Sounding Glass however, the black frames they do a sense of disturbance. In the opening fairly evenly, creating more of a blinking rhythm than memory. Initially these dark single trames appear perhaps to previously described gaps in family obviously in False Friends (2007) giving expression verbal speech. Soon the black insert appears, most intensely visual language free from the confines of features. From there, her focus is on developing an Intimacy (2007) are her only works in which voice-over Memories and Schedelbauer's second film Remote .vtisonimul films and the all-consuming force of their syncopated experience is the mark of any encounter with these space of the rooms they occupy. This somatic llut ant tidenti of nears and most the screen to inhabit the full vortex for the viewer who is drawn in as the images it does to the nature of recall. It also creates a powerful reference to the unfathomable process of forgetting as and subliminal features of memory, making as much braided through it. This strategy captures the liminal flickering image of a forested landscape which is Sea of Vapors (2014) is offset by the speed of the pan that occurs in the close-up shot of a human eye in evocation of divergent tempos for example; the slow recent films. Each of these works are marked by the tramework tundamental to Schedelbauer's three most apply here. It is a structural device and conceptual co-existing within the same frame – does not only simultaneity - experiences of present and past mid-century footage. This masterful act of To noiseluginem s'sevedlebed of Schedelbauer's manipulation of Introducing a heightened sense of the present is an want to show you." and put a lot of emphasis on that rather than what they look at the things that everybody takes for granted, time: if you want to know what's going on in a culture philosophical premise that's been around for a long because of what Bruce Conner describes as, 'a in the public consciousness have particular worth that images which are no longer, or in fact were never, discarded footage. This connects strongly to the idea uncover hidden or latent significance in largely material 'speak more', a phrase that reveals a desire to also driven to find ways of making this so-called found way around. Schedelbauer says however that she is impose her will over the material rather than the other duration of a scene for example - it means she can state. The flicker enables her to extend out the like to do with footage that she finds in a compromised some cases as a means of facilitating what she would Schedelbauer tells of how she adopts the flicker in

Sylvia Schedelbauer

Collected Works 2004-2018

2018 right back to her first work Memories, 2004. bringing us from her most recent work Wishing Well, passage through Schedelbauer's entire oeuvre, scenarios. This exhibition is a large-scale immersive benigemi to anoiteroldxe leresiv of another of imagined image works, that range from auto-biographical Sylvia Schedelbauer produces experimental moving versions of a story every time. narrative of her own (re)construction, creating new material, bending it to her will to form an original something totally new. In this way she inhabits existing Schedelbauer manipulates imagery to transform it into and newsreels - from archives or personal collections, educational, industrial, amateur footage, home movies working with source material such as orphan films accelerate the potential of found footage. Often complete. Her flickering filmic works stretch and sensory experiences, that sometimes take years to association and storytelling to create highly engaging like dream logic, biography, allegorical collage, free compelling insight into history. She uses narrative tools and reality, and memory, as an unreliable but be transnational, the slippery shifts between fiction themes such as cultural dislocation, what it means to unique cinematic structural language to interrogate Over the years Schedelbauer has developed her own comprehensive exhibition of her complete works. solo show in a gallery context, and the first festivals internationally. This exhibition marks her first Schedelbauer's work is regularly screened at film

Award for Best Experimental Film. the German Film Critics' Award and the Gus Van Sant Symposium. Awards include the VG Bild-Kunst Award, Flaherty International Film Seminar and Stan Brakhage London Film Festival, New York Film Festival, Robert Festival, International Short Film Festival Oberhausen, screenings include Berlinale, Toronto International Film manipulations of found and archival footage. Selected psychological realms mainly through poetic between broader historical narratives and personal, Katharina Sieverding). Her films negotiate the space She studied at the University of Arts Berlin (with to Berlin in 1993 where she has been based since. Sylvia Schedelbauer was born in Tokyo, and moved a reunion with currents of the forest. synchronous. A transcendent turn, a quest for agency, Synopsis: Gushing colors. A time disjointed, yet Music: Jeff Surak Picture / sound montage: Sylvia Schedelbauer Duration: 13 min. 8ros, IleW pninziW L flow into an allegory of the lunar cycle. Synopsis: A cascade of images cut frame by frame Cast: Linda Scobie Director of Photography: Cyrus Tabar Music: Jeff Surak Picture / sound montage: Sylvia Schedelbauer Duration: 15 min. Sea of Vapors, 2014 give form to his introspection. impressions; rhythmic waves of images and sounds To boolt a of toekt is subject to a flood of Music: Thomas Carnacki Picture / sound montage: Sylvia Schedelbauer Duration: 10 min. Sounding Glass, 2011 3 simultaneous spaces in, and out, of time. beneath shifting residues of rootlessness; constructed soundscapes generate a psychogram Synopsis: A lyrical layering of found images and Picture / sound montage: Sylvia Schedelbauer Duration: 7 min. Way fare, 2009 7 and projection. poetic reflection about an anxious interplay of memory. mysterious strands are obsessively braided to create a Synopsis: A montage of mid-century found footage: Picture / sound montage: Sylvia Schedelbauer Duration: 5 min False Friends, 2007 G found stories and a personal reference. Synopsis: Stream of consciousness with fictitious and Voice over: Mona Deghan, Setsu Tamura-Schedelbauer Picture / sound montage: Sylvia Schedelbauer Duration: J5min Remote Intimacy, 2007

9

by the artist. Synopsis: An attempt to construct a personal history Picture / sound montage: Sylvia Schedelbauer Duration: 19min Memories, 2004

List of Works

ΕN